Jean Monnet Summer School: EU Law and Internal Market for Non-Lawyers

University North, Varazdin campus, 27-29 June 2019

This 'crash course' offers a legal perspective on key EU topics in a manner accessible to non-lawyers. It is intended for students and young professionals of disciplines other than law who wish to broaden their knowledge of law, institutions and the internal market of the European Union. A particular emphasis is placed on the role of law in the process of EU integration, with focus on regional integration in South Eastern Europe. While touching upon key processes, the course provides insights into specific topics through the discussion of selected case studies.

Programme:

Part I: ABC of EU law

- Introduction to law and EU law
- EU institutions
- The fundamental freedoms of the internal market

Part II: Hot topics and case studies in EU law

- The rule of law in the EU
- Internal market and the region of SEE
- EU trade and investment agreements and the region of SEE
- The EU and the refugee crisis

The attendance at this summer school is free of charge and it is open to students of the University North and other interested individuals. The course is taught in English language and attendees should be comfortable with receiving academic lectures in English. However, language ability will not be vetted and summaries can be provided in Croatian language. At the conclusion of the course, the participants who have attended all sessions may request a certificate of attendance.
